Rent a car and let's go for a drive!

■ An international driving permit is necessary for foreign visitors driving in Japan.

- You need to carry an international driving permit issued under the Geneva Convention. The international driving permit issued in Japan is valid for one year from the date of issue.
 - Valid international driving permit under a bilateral convention
- The domestic driver's license in Taiwan or some other countries is accepted as valid in Japan as long as the renter carries one's driver's license and a Japanese translation of the license issued either by an embassy, consulate or by the Japanese Automobile Federation (JAF) (JAF or East Asia Relations Commission in the case of Taiwan). However, there are some restrictions: the renter must not have resided in Japan for more than one year; the driver's license of issuing country must be valid; The renter must carry a Japanese residence card or in case the renter is a holder of alien registration card, the renter must have spent at least three consecutive months overseas prior to the last entry into Japan.

■ Let's make a car rental reservation!

Rental rates vary according to the type of car and it is suggested that you decide what the car is for and whom to bring along prior to choosing the car type. Most rental cars nowadays are equipped with GPS but there are some exceptions. It is recommended to check in advance if your car has GPS. Reservations can be made over the phone and at the rent-a-car offices. Some offices can also accept a reservation via internet.

■ When renting a car

Please come to the rental office a little earlier than the reservation time as some procedure need to be made prior to renting. Foreign visitors are advised to make sure to bring their international driving permit and passport. Those who rent a car for the first time may be asked to pay by credit card, so it is recommended to carry your credit card just in case.

Easy Drive with MAPCODE!

MAPCODE is a code number to pinpoint the location of a destination. It's a clever system that pinpoints the exact location of your destination by entering a map code into GPS. While those tourist spots located on large premises, starting points for a climb and nature viewing spots such as valley are usually hard to locate with a map or with the addresses, you can just enter the mapcodes of such locations into the GPS and get the pinpointed guide. Recommended for foreign visitors, too!

◎How to Use MAPCODE

Press a destination button on GPS with map code.

Select a map code on the destination setting screen.

Set the displayed map as your destination and now you can just follow the navigator.

Enter the mapcode and press OK to see the map.
